Dear Students, Faculty and Staff,

Good morning and season's greetings! 2020 has been an unusual year. I walk the grounds of our campuses daily and miss seeing and talking with faculty, staff, and most of all students. Nevertheless, I am optimistic the halls will become crowded and feel like a college campus once again in 2021.

My gratitude and thanks to all our faculty and staff who make Southwestern Illinois College programs and services available and accessible for our students.

The holiday season is a wonderful time to be with family and friends; spread kindness and goodwill; get along; and let go of bitterness and hostilities. However, this holiday season amid a pandemic we must be cautious and careful. Show our family and friends how much we care so we can all look forward to a new year.

Enjoy this wonderful holiday season!
